In the year 2027, the Rulons declared war on the Galans. It was a predictable dispute over territory and resources. Until then, Protorus was a nondescript planet quietly orbiting the star Capella in the constellation Auriga. No one would have guessed that the war on Protorus would ultimately divide the very fabric of the universe.

Kolus, the chief scientist for the Rulons had just constructed a terrible new bomb - or "device" as they preferred to call it. By releasing the forces within subatomic particles, the "device" was believed to have enough destructive potential to vaporize the entire Galan army. Victory was assured; however, only one problem remained. The device was far too sensitive to deliver by rocket, and the targeting would have to be extremely precise. It was decided by council that the energy/mass transporter would be used. Such use of the transporter for moving weapons had been specifically banned by treaty, but now this was war!

The super bomb was carefully loaded into the transporter. The coordinates were set and the beam was activated. As the "device" began to dissolve into a shower of glistening photons, something went wrong. The "device" went off too soon. Waves of uncontrolled energy began to sweep over the Rulon and Galan camps.

Before anyone had time to think, both armies had been dissolved into time and space - through time to millions of years in the past; and through space to a distant planet called Earth.

And now on Earth, the conflict continues. The Rulons and Galans have lost their scientific engines of war which were left on Protorus. But they have found an awesome substitute on primitive Earth. They have learned to harness the power of the dinosaurs! By combining sophisticated sensors and weapon systems with the brutal power of these ancient beasts, the Rulons and Galans clash in the most titanic battle in the history of the universe.

DINO RIDERS

For centuries the Sauresian empire had flourished on the planet Protorus. Its people had learned to control the planet's harsh environment. They lived with their world in peace and harmony. But in the Protorian year 2027 the Sauresians were attacked by a ruthless horde of marauding aliens called Rulons.

So complete was the Rulon victory that only a handful of Sauresians managed to escape the devastation. With a Rulon ship in close pursuit, the last survivors of this once great empire set sail for a distant planet called Earth.

The Sauresians have now landed on prehistoric Earth in the year 65 million B.C. It is the age of the dinosaurs. By using the last of their remaining technology, the Sauresians have learned to harness the awesome power of these ancient beasts. And with this power they intend to rebuild their civilization.

But unknown to the Sauresians, the ruthless Rulons have also landed on Earth. Though not as successful in gaining the cooperation of the dinosaurs, the Rulons have managed to harness their power through electro-mind control. And now they will try to use this power, not to build, but to utterly destroy the last of the Sauresians.

ON THE PLANET PROTORUS, THE SAURESIAN PEOPLE, A ONCE PROUD NATION, HAVE BECOME ENSLAVED BY A RUTHLESS HORDE OF MARAUDING ALIENS CALLED RUCONS. THE RUCONS HAD SIEZED CONTROL OF PROTORUS BY CAPTURING THE ORBITING ENVIRONMENTAL CONTROL SHIP (O.E.C.) WHICH IS ESSENTIAL FOR REGULATING THE OTHERWISE HOSTILE WEATHER ON PROTORUS,

BUT THE SAURESIANS WERE NOT ABOUT TO REMAIN IN BONDAGE. THEIR WISE LEADERS HAD DEVISED A PLAN TO RECAPTURE THE O.E.C. SHIP AND LEAVE PROTORUS FOREVER. PURELL, THE SAURESIAN KING AND HIS CHIEF SCIENTIST KRUCOS HAD DISCOVERED A DISTANT PLANET MUCH LIKE THEIR OWN. AT LAST THE SAURESIANS WOULD HAVE HOPE FOR A NEW LIFE AND A NEW CIVILIZATION.

THROUGH A SERIES OF CLEVERLY PLANNED SURPRISE MANOEUVERS A SMALL BAND OF SAURESIANS RECAPTURED THE O.E.C. AND SET SAIL FOR THEIR NEW HOME ON PREHISTORIC EARTH.
